Dated 1st January, 2007

JUDGMENT

Koshy,J.

This is a petition for police protection as well as alleging police harassment. According to the petitioner, he purchased a property and there is a boundary dispute. It is also submitted that police has registered a case against him of molestation and police is harassing him by way of investigation. In a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India we cannot fix boundaries of the petitioner's property. If petitioner's civil rights are infringed, it is for the him to approach the civil court and get appropriate orders. If any criminal case is charged against the petitioner, it is for him to avail remedies under the Criminal Procedure Code and in a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India we will not interfere in the matter. However, we direct the police to see that their action should be strictly according to law. With that direction, this writ petition is disposed of.
